A site civil engineer is responsible for overseeing construction projects and ensuring that they are completed safely, on time, within budget, and to the required quality standards. Their job encompasses various tasks related to planning, design, construction, and maintenance of projects. Here's an overview of the typical responsibilities and duties of a site civil engineer:

Responsibilities:

- Assist in the planning and scheduling of project timelines and milestones.
- Oversee daily site operations and monitor the progress of construction activities.
- Ensure that all work is carried out in accordance with approved drawings, specifications, and safety standards.
- Conduct regular site inspections to ensure compliance with safety, quality, and environmental regulations.
- Provide technical advice and support to construction teams.
- Identify and resolve any technical issues or challenges that arise during construction.
- Inspect materials and workmanship to ensure they meet project specifications.
- Conduct tests and inspections of completed work to verify compliance with design and quality standards.
- Ensure that all site activities comply with health and safety regulations and guidelines.
- Promote a culture of safety among the workforce and enforce the use of safety equipment and practices.
- Investigate and report accidents or incidents that occur on-site.
- Maintain accurate records of project progress, site activities, and any changes made to the original plans.
- Prepare daily, weekly, and monthly reports on project status, including cost tracking and timelines.
- Liaise with clients, subcontractors, and suppliers to ensure effective communication and coordination.
- Attend site meetings and project coordination meetings to provide updates and gather feedback.
- Coordinate with local authorities and regulatory bodies for permits, inspections, and approvals.

Qualifications:

- Educational Background: A bachelor's degree in civil engineering.
- Experience: 5 years and above Relevant experience in construction, project management, or engineering is essential. Entry-level positions may require internships or on-site training experience.
